

CONTENTS

1. Making Law Intelligible in Comparative Context	1
Brian P. Owensby and Richard J. Ross
PART I. MIS-DIALOGUES, CODE SWITCHING, AND MIXING LANGUAGES OF LAW
2. Dialoguing with Barbarians: What Natives Said and How Europeans Responded in Late-Seventeenth- and Eighteenth-Century Portuguese America	61
Tamar Herzog
3. Defending and Defrauding the Indians: John Wompas, Legal Hybridity, and the Sale of Indian Land	89
Jenny Hale Pulsipher
4. “Since We Came out of This Ground”: Iroquois Legal Arguments at the Treaty of Lancaster	118
Craig Yirush
5. “Ynuvaciones malas e rreprouadas”: Seeking Justice in Early Colonial Pueblos de Indios	151
Karen B. Graubart
PART II. AT THE BOUNDARIES OF DIFFERING CONCEPTIONS OF JUSTICE
6. “Darling Indians” and “Natural Lords”: Virginia’s Tributary Regime and Florida’s Republic of Indians in the Seventeenth Century	183
Bradley Dixon
7. Covering Blood and Graves: Murder and Law on Imperial Margins	213
Nancy O. Gallman and Alan Taylor

8. “Sovereignty Has Lost Its Rights”: Liberal Experiments and Indigenous Citizenship in New Granada, 1810–1819 Marcela Echeverri	238
PART III. CONCLUDING PERSPECTIVES
9. In Defense of Ignorance: Frameworks for Legal Politics in the Atlantic World Lauren Benton	273
10. Intelligibility or Incommensurability? Daniel K. Richter	291
Acknowledgments	307
About the Editors	309
About the Contributors	311
Index	315